

```
>>> #single inheritance
>>> class Siva:
...     def assest(self):
...         print('2bhk/car/properties')
...
>>> class Vino(Siva):
...     pass
...
>>> v = Vino()
>>> v.assest()
2bhk/car/properties
```

```
>>> #multiple inheritance
>>> class redbus():
...     def passenger(self):
...         print('redbus passenger')
...
...
>>> class bakery():
...     def customer(self):
...         print('good customer')
...
...
>>> class Vino(redbus,bakery):
...     pass
...
>>> v = Vino()
>>> v.customer()
good customer
>>> v.passenger() redbus passenger
```

```
>>> #multilevel inheritance
>>> class Govindarasu():
...     def gf(self):
...         print('plumber')
...
...
>>> class Siva(Govindarasu):
...     def f(self):
...         print('government employee')
...
...
>>> class Vino(Siva):
...     pass
...
>>> v = Vino()
>>> v.f()
government employee >>> s = Siva()
>>> s.gf()
plumber
```

```
>>> #hierarchical inheritance
>>> class Siva():
..     def salary(self):
..         print('get money from his salary of 40k')
..
>>> class Vino(Siva):
..     def student(self):
..         print('gets the pocket money of 2k from his daddy')
..
>>> class Abi(Siva):
..     def clgstudent(self):
..         print('gets the pocket money of 1k from his daddy')
..
>>> v = Vino()
>>> v.salary()
get money from his salary of 40k
>>> v.student()
gets the pocket money of 2k from his daddy
>>> a = Abi()
>>> a.salary()
get money from his salary of 40k
>>> a.clgstudent()
gets the pocket money of 1k from his daddy
```